THINK GLOBALLY. SHOP LOCALLY!

You can find almost everything you need on the Hill, and with stores opening all the time, there is rarely a need to hie yourself to the suburban shopping malls. Yes, you can log on to Amazon, but then you miss one of the best parts of living here – being able to walk to everything you need and missing out on the face-to-face encounters that make this a real community.

EASTERN MARKET FLEA MARKET

Seventh Street & North Carolina Ave. SE easternmarketdc.com

Sure, it would be nice to go on a shopping holiday in Europe, but it'd be a tad expensive these days. No worries. We have a European marketplace right here on our Hill, every Saturday and Sunday. Why, a Hillaholic such as yourself can stroll right down Seventh Street and find a glorious mixture of arts, crafts, antiques, clothing, textiles and many other curiosities. No Europe, but also, no hideous exchange rates or lost luggage!

UNION STATION

50 Massachusetts Ave. NE
202-289-5154

www.unionstationdc.com/shopping

“Take me ‘cross the river, drown me in the box stores. Bum, bum, bum...” Find yourself singing this little ditty in traffic? Turn that car around and return to The Hill where you're sanguine and sane. Turn your day of mall obligation into a couple of hours by heading over to Union Station where you can get a distilled big box store experience. Pop by B. Dalton, Godiva Chocolatier, FYE electronics, Lucy yoga, Jos. A. Bank or The Body Shop. Not enough to convince you? How 'bout three hours of parking, for one dollar?

APPAREL

Art & Soul
225 Pennsylvania Ave. SE
202-548-0105

If you haven't been to this enchanting boutique, brimming with a wonderful choice of wearable art from stylish hand-painted knit outfits, Winding River reversible jackets and stand-out evening wear, exquisite jewelry and crafts, you've been missing out. Nestled between Trover Books and Capitol Hill Lounge, it's easy to overlook as you sprint down Pennsylvania, but you must stop. Some truly decadent and glamorous items await you inside, at all price points. This is an ideal spot to find a gift for the stylish woman in your life, especially if she's you.

DC Style

1342 H St. NE

202-388-3291

Moe knows style. If you pay a visit to his happening H Street store, he'll let you in on what the kids are wearing in Europe and what a DC'er can get away with on the Hill. Casual wear from across The Pond for men and women, as well as stylish sneakers, dapper dress shoes, big belt buckles, bags and brash T-shirts can be found in this vibrant shop, allowing one-stop shopping for those longing to get hip quick.

Clothes Encounters

202 Seventh St. SE

202-546-4004

Encounter clothes of a stylish kind at this fabulous resale store. The owner's good taste and discerning eye guarantee quality merchandise at low prices. Tasteful suits, formal dresses, vintage furs, upscale casual wear, gorgeous bags, shoes, jewelry and other accessories can be found here. And with the way the inventory turns over, there's always a new gem to be found.

The Forecast

218 Seventh St. SE

202-547-7337

www.forecaststore.com

This is a delightful, upscale boutique for the professional woman. Whether you're seeking a jaw-dropping evening look, stylish and comfortable office attire (Eileen Fisher), or a sleek new handbag, the ladies of Forecast will guide you through an easy and pleasurable shopping experience. With their eclectic collection of candles, place mats, French soaps and lotions, Forecast is just the spot to pick up the perfect hostess gift. Did I mention the handbags?

Kashmir Imports

50 Massachusetts Ave. NE

202-789-8880

www.kashmirimports.com

This exotic purveyor, located in Union Station's West Hall, is a treasure chest of handmade crafts by gifted artisans of the Kashmir Valley. Beautiful shawls, jackets and scarves embroidered and woven with 100 percent merino wool yarns are available in a kaleidoscope of colors. Stop to admire the papier-mâché boxes, ornaments, pillow covers and other decorative items, painted with traditional Persian designs.

The Remix Vintage Fashion Shop

645 Pennsylvania Ave. SE

202-547-0211

www.remixvintage.com

Recycling socks? Funky. Recycling classic vintage style? Fabulous! This tempting fashion time machine contains styles from the turn of the century all the way through the '80s. Owner and designer Stacey has done a phenomenal job of showcasing her items in a contemporary and classy way. (Read: no digging involved!) Whether you're seeking a party dress or a cute vintage-cut coat, you can make the "old" new again at Remix.

The Village

705 North Carolina Ave. SE

202-546-3040

www.thevillageoncapitolhill.com

Peek around the corner behind Port City Java and follow the path through the lush, fenced-in garden to find this creative oasis. The Village has all manner of crafts, textiles, jewelry and most of all clothing. Flax is a favorite here, as well as Tianello, Planet shirts, Yasuko jackets, Ahni designs and Christopher Calvin. The emphasis is on quality, casual, comfortable clothing that is easy to care for. Upstairs is co-owner Alan Braley's art gallery (www.braleyart.com). Whether you're looking for a new scarf, a handmade necklace or The Perfect Piece to hang in the hall, you'll find it here.

BOOKS

Trover Bookstore

221 Pennsylvania Ave. SE

202-547-2665

www.trover.com

This bookshop is a staple in the lives of DC's residents. For 50 years Trover has been supplying locals with everything from political texts and congressional guides to crossword puzzles and page-turning bedtime reads. Regular book signings for politicians and pundits are always a draw here, making this an excellent spot for celeb sightings. Beyond books, one can also find gifts, cards, children's toys and office accessories at this "treasure" Trover.

Capitol Hill Books

657 C St. SE

202-544-1621

capitolhillbooks-dc.com

This second-hand bookstore is packed to the gills with rare and unusual tomes, as well as current books of all kinds. Coffee table art books, last year's best sellers, paperback mysteries – it's all here. Owner Jim Morton's descriptive cataloging index cards, hung throughout the shop, serve to amuse and enhance the browsing experience. Be sure to take note of the books on display at the front desk complete with reviews. A recent fave: Britney Spears' impassioned endorsement of Dr. Spock's Baby & Childcare.

Riverby Books

17 East Capitol St. SE

202-543-4342

www.riverbybooks.com

Dignified and charming, with its flowing fountain in the front courtyard and its monthly book readings, Riverby Books is everything a resale boutique bookstore should be. A comprehensive selection of political writings stands out in the varied and carefully selected general stock, which is constantly changing. Stop by at 4:30 any afternoon for a cup of tea and a browse. Be sure to check out owner Nicky Cymrot's gorgeous handmade jewelry while you're there.

A magical subterranean Asian-inspired gift heaven. Lamps, dishware, jewelry, toys, clothes, textiles, books on everything from the Bahavagetta to Being Buddah. Get a little culture with your consumerism, and check out the gallery while you're there. Make your shopping foray a religious experience and pass through the Moongate Garden, inspired by China's glorious Temple of Heaven. Your third eye will thank you.

Groovy DC Cards & Gifts
428 Eighth St. SE
202-544-6633, www.groovydc.com
There are not many stores that carry "congratulations on your split" divorce cards. In fact, Groovy may be the only place. This irreverent, playful gift store has a card, a gift and proper wrapping for any occasion. Custom printed announcements, glass art and vases, frames, toys and writing pen sets. Complete your groovy experience by treating yourself to a bouquet of colorful balloons or a Hello Kitty change purse.

Here you'll find an extensive collection of fine wooden bowls and cutting boards, picture frames, blown glass, carefully crafted quilts, jewelry, wind chimes and children's toys, making Appalachian Spring an ideal place to find a gift or souvenir

Frager's Hardware
1115 Pennsylvania Ave. SE
202-543-6157
www.fragersdc.com

Hill residents don't think of Frager's simply as a hardware store. It's a religion! A valuable neighborhood destination brimming with, yes, a broad selection of hardware supplies, but also home items, lamps, decorative accents, plants, pottery, do-dads and knickknacks, and the rentals! What can't you rent from Frager's? Hotdog roasters, tables, chairs, popcorn poppers, steam cleaners ... if Frager's doesn't have it, you don't need it.
